MORROW SODALI ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT OF JEAN-FLORENT RÉROLLE AS MANAGING DIRECTOR

London – December 4, 2017: Morrow Sodali today announced that Jean-Florent Rérolle has joined the firm as Managing Director. Based in Paris, Jean-Florent will represent Morrow Sodali in France and will be responsible for the continued growth of the French market while providing strategic advice to companies and their Boards of Directors on matters related to governance and shareholder relations, mergers and acquisitions, activism and other special situations.

Jean-Florent has been valuation Partner at Ernst & Young in Paris and New-York, Managing Director of investment bank Houlihan Lokey in London and Paris, and Partner at KPMG Corporate Finance, where he led the Valuation and Capital Market Insights activity.

He is a founder of the Institut Français des Administrateurs (the French Institute of Directors), a long-time member of its board, author of a book and of several reports on governance best practices. He teaches corporate finance, valuation and corporate governance in several business schools in France.

“We are delighted that such an experienced professional has joined the Morrow Sodali team,” said Alvise Recchi, CEO Morrow Sodali, “Jean-Florent brings proven leadership experience, a deep understanding of the investment management landscape, and hands-on governance expertise. This impressive set of skills complements our background as a leading corporate governance, shareholder relations consultancy and advisor in capital markets transactions.”

Commenting on his appointment, Jean-Florent said: “I am enthusiastic to be joining Morrow Sodali and I look forward to building upon the professionalism and value exemplified by Morrow Sodali and their high standards of client service. I see a great opportunity to continue expanding Morrow Sodali’s mission and to further connect companies and their investors.”
